Tip of the Week:

The Sun entered Pisces - the sign symbolic of music, lyrics, poetry, storytelling, and dance, activating its 'time' early this year on February 18, joining forces there with Mercury, Saturn, and Neptune - all in Pisces.

The waning Moon, fast approaching yet another conjunction with the Sun will add to this powerful theme, producing a 5-planet Pisces stellium.

Moving at its full speed, Mercury will form a conjunction with Saturn just prior to the next New Moon on February 27.

Mars turns direct in moody Cancer on February 23, after about six weeks of retrograde motion. It will then push through for just shy of two months before entering Leo. During this time, the bigger phase of the social, collective renovation project will occur.

Pluto unaspected in the early degrees of Aquarius, (which it has been since about mid-February and will predominantly be until April), disposed by Uranus in the late degrees of bullish Taurus will 'see it done', if not exactly according to plan with 'mischievous' Loki leading the parade. With it will come matching waves of resistance and protest, but most of it will likely prove futile, aside from venting shared frustrations in good company.

Have a great week,

Michael

Weekly Horoscope:

Aries (Mar 21 – Apr 20)

The Piscean factor has been playing a major role in your life over the past couple of years especially. It indicates that you have been experiencing a disintegration process of what once was. This could be welcome, but it could also be the source of much anguish and anxiety. The truth is this process is not over. Perhaps it helps to know that there is rhyme and reason to it all.

Taurus (Apr 20 – May 21)

Pisces is your friend, one that makes you laugh. Yet, it is also a perplexing sign for you as your earthy embodiment and attitude confronts its ethereal and idealistic notions. The middle ground is presence, yes, being here and now, which is the gift that presence gives. With Pluto juggling dynamite like a giant jester, it is the place to be.

Gemini (May 21 – Jun 21)

With the Pisces stellium influencing your public and professional life, you can expect a steady stream of surprises to begin flowing in. These could include encountering new players and plots, some of whom just might become friends. Yet, you might be required to keep your mind open even wider than usual and aim to see things from other angles.

Cancer (Jun 21 – Jul 22)

Pisces is your sign of wise counsel, and you do well to allow for its imaginative flexibility to support your otherwise assertive resolve. It is guiding you now to listen louder and speak more silently. Embracing the process with patience as opposed to locking claws with impatient outcome attachments will win the day, and perhaps even weeks and months.

Leo (Jul 22 – Aug 23)

It is slippery, fluid, liquid Pisces that has been melting your mind and heart these past weeks especially. Its objective is to increase your capacity to empathize, on the one hand, and to identify your fears and confront them, on the other. This work is meant to produce subtle yet real changes in your attitude and approach. Magically, working inwardly will clear outer blocks.

Virgo (Aug 23 – Sep 22)

Pisces your love is strumming strings to beckon your attention and affection. Whatever sign occupies the relationship zone is the one that offers you the harmony, beauty, and fulfillment you seek, and for you, it is the fishes. Softening the edges of your mind, it supports you to gain access to your heart, revealing realities that rise above the hard ground.

Libra (Sep 22 – Oct 22)

Pisces plays an important role in your life, yet it must be understood well to be appreciated. On one hand, it inspires higher ideals and dreams of possibility. On the other, it ironically offers painfully sobering reminders about the importance of being mindful not to succumb to escapist tendencies and excesses that replace moderation with mold.

Scorpio (Oct 22 – Nov 21)

It is said by the wise that imagination can prove greater than knowledge. It is what allows us to see from above, through and beyond, and yet also become one with whatever is desired. Imagination is the elixir of magic that inspires creative engagement, and paints possibilities with the full spectrum of colors, textures, sounds, seductive sensations, and on...

Sagittarius (Nov 21 – Dec 21)

Pisces is the sign that is your anchor and core. Although you tend to meet the world with factual critique and bulldozing logic, it is not what makes you happy so much as pays the bills. There is a space beyond practical accomplishments, and what transcends the so-called realities, that some refer to as the 'within', which your wisdom mind seeks.

Capricorn (Dec 21 – Jan 19)

For all your realism, few would realize just how idealistic you can be. The twist is that you aspire to be a 'realistic idealist', and you know just how much disciplined effort is required. It is said that it is better to have a dream than to drown it in realism, yet having one does not make you a dreamer, or at least not one lost in dreams, but one who is determined to make them real.

Aquarius (Jan 19 – Feb 19)

When it comes to priorities, Pisces is at the top of your list. It, or is it he, or she, or they or them..., reminds you that, after all is said and done, there is more, even more than can be imagined and that all the efforts, trials, and tribulations, are rewarded. That these returns and rewards are given in the presence of now and in the transcendent too, is the promise that Pisces realizes.

Pisces (Feb 19 – Mar 20)

This stellar stellium of Piscean potency is yours to harness as your new year begins. If the Sun has not yet completed its round this week, it will soon, and it is inviting you to get on board for the next new array of adventures. Much ever depends on the Moon, new on the 27th, and those of the Sun, Mercury, and Venus, and knowing if it is waxing or waning and their status too, both turning retrograde soon.
